INVESTIGATIVE SOLUTIONS GROUP, UNLIMITED

20 Interview Questions

It is recommended that the following questions be asked in a two part interview process. Questions 1 – 10 to be asked in the first interview; then 11 – 20 in the second interview. The interviewer should ask the questions and WRITE the answers down, taking time to notice and note the interviewee's attitude, demeanor, how much time and thought is given to their answer and how relaxed they may or may not be. Pay attention and make notes about how much eye contact they have, how much they smile, and how interested they seem in YOU. Elaborate on the questions only enough to make their meaning clear to the interviewee.

Do your best to make the questions conversational. If you find yourself sounding like a game show host or feel like you are playing Twenty Questions, you can intersperse the questions with discussions with company policies such as: (These should also be in An Employee Handbook as well.)

- Schedules – what type of hours are available and times shifts begin and end.
- Tobacco policies – Is it allowed, where is the smoking section if so, etc.
- Hygiene Policies - Bathroom procedures, hand washing, etc.
- Uniform and Appearances
